The 6 Pass: Launch playbook

Nov 10, 2026 · @Ammar

We build demand before launch night: tease, reveal real partners, bring in creators and press, then peak at a Tuesday launch party. Nothing goes out until real partners are signed. Internal launch target is Tue Mar 16, 2027 (not public; say "early next year").

The story

One breath: "The 6 Pass is a yearly pass for Toronto. At hand-picked restaurants, spas and studios, you bring someone and the second one's on us. It's a reason to go out on a Tuesday."

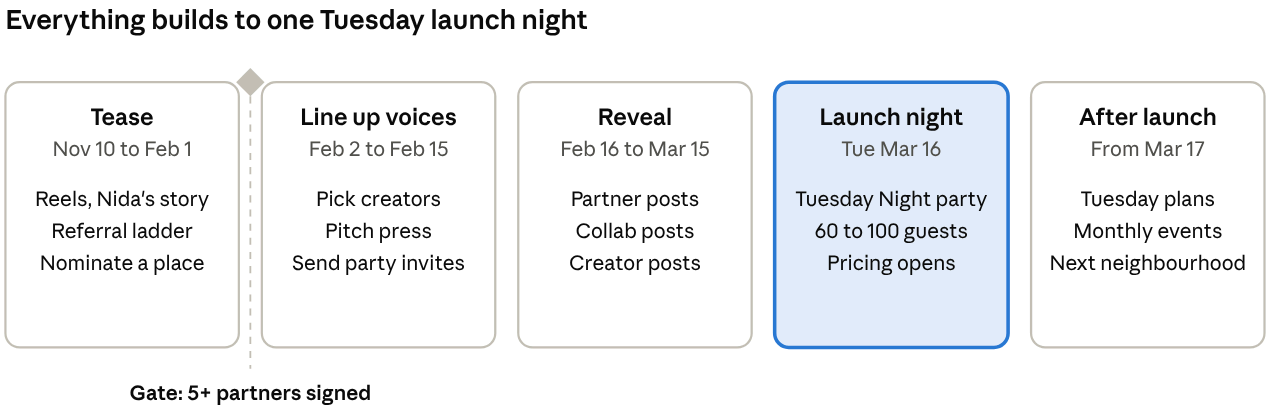

Three ideas in every message

1. Bring someone. It's social, not a discount.
2. Hand-picked. Fifty great places, not five hundred average ones.
3. Come back. It's built to make you a regular somewhere.

The face is Nida. A Toronto mom who picks every place herself. Press and owners respond to a founder, not an app.

Say	Never say
Bring someone, the second one's on us	Deal, coupon, voucher, discount
Hand-picked, Founding Partner	Unlock, elevate, revolutionary
Early next year	A launch date, a price
Coffee, food, spa, class	Drinks, wine, cocktails

Timeline

launch timeline · 5 phases, 1 gate

Nothing moves past the tease until at least 5 real partners have signed; the dates follow the internal Mar 16 target and slide with it.

Tease, then reveal

Tease (now to 6 weeks before launch)

Goal: curiosity and a growing waitlist, without explaining everything.

- [ ] Chat-text reels, one a week: "who are you bringing Tuesday?"
- [ ] Close-ups of food, spa and studio details with no names: "something's coming to Ossington"
- [ ] "Who would you bring?" prompts that make people tag friends
- [ ] Nida's story: why she's doing it, her visiting places, warm and unpolished
- [ ] Referral ladder on the waitlist: invite friends, move up the line
- [ ] "Nominate a place" on the site and in the thank-you email
- [ ] Personal seeding: group chats, LinkedIn, alumni groups, Bay Street WhatsApps

Reveal (4 weeks before launch)

Goal: show the real partners. This is when it becomes real.

- [ ] One partner per post: real photos, the owner's face, the real offer, "Founding Partner #1"
- [ ] Instagram collab post with every partner, so it lands on their followers too

- [ ] Table card and window sticker at each partner with a QR code to the waitlist
- [ ] Press pitch goes out (see Press)
- [ ] Launch party invites go out (see Launch party)

Influencers

Small Toronto creators carry this plan. They are cheap, trusted, and likely to say yes.

Tier	Followers	How many	The deal
Micro	5k to 30k	15 to 25	Free founding pass for a year + a visit for two at a partner, for 1 post or reel + stories
Mid	30k to 150k	3 to 5	Same, plus a small fee (roughly $150 to $500 each, estimate)
Anchor	150k+	0 to 2	Optional, launch week only

Who to look for: Toronto food reviewers, date-idea accounts, wellness and pilates creators, young-professional lifestyle accounts, weeknight-plans TikTokers. Skip feeds built on drinks and bars.

Where to find them: search Instagram and TikTok for "Toronto food", "Toronto date ideas", "things to do Toronto"; look at who your first partners already get tagged by; ask partners which creators visit them.

Every creator gets their own invite link, so we see who actually brings sign-ups and keep working with them.

Disclosure: Canada's Competition Bureau requires #ad or "gifted" on sponsored posts. Put it in every agreement.

First message (Instagram DM)

Hi [name], loved your post on [specific post]. We're The 6 Pass: a yearly pass for hand-picked Toronto spots where you bring someone and the second one's on us. We're opening early next year and would love you to try it first: a free founding pass, and dinner for two at one of our partners. If it's a fit, a post or a reel about who you'd bring. Interested? Nida, founder

Brief for creators who say yes

- What it is, in the one-breath line
- Show who you brought. That's the product.
- No alcohol on camera, no prices, no launch date
- Tag the partner and @the6pass, add #ad or "gifted"
- Use your own invite link in bio or stories

Press

Pitch a story, not an app. Send 3 to 4 weeks before launch, follow up once, and invite every writer to the launch party.

Targets: blogTO, Streets of Toronto, Toronto Life, Narcity, Daily Hive, Curiocity, neighbourhood newsletters, campus papers.

Angles, pick one per outlet

- "A Toronto mom hand-picks 50 places for a pass that gets you out on a Tuesday"
- "The anti-Groupon: fewer places, better ones"
- "Ossington restaurants team up to fill quiet weeknights"
- "A launch party with no bar": the alcohol-free Tuesday night

Subject: A Toronto mom is hand-picking 50 places for a new kind of pass

Hi [name],

I'm Nida, founder of The 6 Pass. It's a yearly pass for Toronto: at hand-picked restaurants, spas and studios, you bring someone and the second one's on us. The idea is simple: a reason to go out on a Tuesday, and to become a regular somewhere.

Our first Founding Partners in [neighbourhood] include [partner names]. We open with a Tuesday-night launch at [venue] on [date], and I'd love you there.

Happy to share photos, the full partner list, or talk any time.

Nida

Press kit (one page plus a photo folder)

- The one-breath line and the three ideas
- Nida's story in 4 sentences, plus a good photo of her
- Real partner photos and owner quotes (with permission)
- How it works in 3 steps
- Contact: hello@the6pass.ca, @the6pass

Launch party: "Tuesday Night"

A Tuesday evening at a Founding Partner, for 60 to 100 guests, alcohol-free by design. Every invite is for two.

Guests: top waitlist referrers, invited creators, press, all Founding Partners, a few friends from Bay Street firms, the neighbourhood BIA.

Run of show (about 2.5 hours)

1. Arrival: photo backdrop, founding member badges, mocktail and coffee bar

2. Tasting stations from 3 to 5 partners, each owner talking about their place
3. Nida speaks, 5 minutes: why she started it, thanks to the partners
4. The reveal: full partner list, founding member pricing opens tonight for guests
5. Live demo: guests redeem a real offer in the app
6. Goodie bag: QR card for the founding pass, partner treats

Invite text

Tuesday Night with The 6 Pass

Bring someone you've been meaning to see.

[Date], 6:30 to 9 pm, [venue], [neighbourhood]
Tastings from our Founding Partners, a mocktail and coffee bar, and the first look at The 6 Pass.

This invite is for two. RSVP: hello@the6pass.ca

Checklist

- [ ] Pick the venue partner and date (6 weeks out)
- [ ] Confirm 3 to 5 tasting partners
- [ ] Book photographer and short-form video person
- [ ] Send invites (4 weeks out), reminders (1 week and 1 day out)
- [ ] Print backdrop, cards, stickers, badges
- [ ] Set up live redemption in the app and test it on site
- [ ] Goodie bags packed
- [ ] Next morning: thank-you email, photos to partners and creators

Budget (rough Toronto estimates)

Item	Estimate
Venue	$0 to $1,000 (often free from the partner)
Food and mocktails	$1,000 to $3,000 (partners may contribute)
Photo and video	$300 to $800

Item	Estimate
Printing, backdrop, cards, stickers	$300 to $600
Goodie bags	$200 to $500
Total	$2,000 to $6,000

After launch

- Weekly "Tuesday plan" post: one partner, one offer, who to bring
- Member stories, real people and photos, with permission
- A new partner reveal every month, so there's always news
- Referral reward that stays: bring a friend who joins, you both get something
- One small member event a month: a neighbourhood walk, a spa morning, a studio class
- Next neighbourhood: a fresh round of tease, reveal and press
- Later: "The 6 Pass for teams" to HR at firms whose people already use it

Numbers we track

What	Why
Waitlist sign-ups per week, by source	Which channel works
Sign-ups per creator link	Who to work with again
Nominations per place	Which owners to approach warmly
Partner collab posts and reach	Partners actively promoting
Party: attendance, sign-ups that night, posts	The launch moment landed
After launch: redemptions, repeat visits	A habit, not just hype
